The year 2022 began under the cloud of the Omicron surge in the country. This meant that courses conducted by the Sushma Swaraj Institute of Foreign Service had to be done virtually or in a hybrid mode. We were fortunate in India that the third wave could be managed properly due to the high coverage of vaccination amongst the target groups. As the situation improved, SSIFS resumed its physical courses and rolled out some novel ones under the aegis of Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav (AKAM). The first quarter of the year was an eventful one.

We welcomed the 2021 Batch of the Indian Foreign Service Officer Trainees (IFS OTs) and two diplomats from Bhutan in March 2022 and thus began their six-month Induction Training Programme. It was heartening to see that out of thirty-five OTs, fifteen are women diplomats, ensuring a fair gender balance at 43%. The two OTs from Bhutan are both women diplomats. The first week in SSIFS was the 'Orientation Week' for the OTs with calls on External Affairs Minister, all three Ministers of State, Foreign Secretary and all the Secretaries in the MEA. The OTs were given introductory lectures on India's foreign policy and on the structure and functions of the MEA and other administrative matters.

MEA celebrated the Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav (AKAM) week from 21-27 February 2022. To celebrate this occasion, SSIFS organized some modules/courses including the one on India's neighbourhood, in partnership with the Lal Bahadur Shastri National Academy of Administration (LBSNAA), at the 96th Foundation Course for 488 civil servants including IFS OTs, newly recruited officers from the All India Services and other Central Services (Group A) and 10 Officers from the Royal Bhutan Government Civil Services. The 3-day training module was the first-ever foreign policy module conducted as a part of the Foundation Course for civil servants and the first-of-its-kind on India's neighbourhood. There was an overwhelming response to the training module, both from the guest faculty and the trainee officers. A 'Special Course on Foreign Policy for Indian Media' was conducted in February 2022 in association with MEA's External Publicity Division. Twenty-one Indian journalists from various English, Hindi and regional media houses participated in the course.

As far as Non-Representational Grade (NRG) courses were concerned, the two-week Induction Training Programme (ITP) for Batch-II of Direct Recruit Assistant Section Officers (DR-ASOs) of the 2017 and 2018 Batches took place virtually in January-February 2022. On the foreign diplomats' front, a half-day training programme was organized on 25 February 2022 for fifteen Officer Trainees of the 2019 Batch of Bangladesh Foreign Service at the request of the High Commission of Bangladesh in New Delhi.

The Courses in SSIFS are picking up momentum as the pandemic recedes. We look forward to bringing you more good news on the exciting journey of diplomatic training in the months ahead!
